

"Poverty Reduction, Institutions, Markets, and Policies in Developing Countries:
Toward a Theory of Comparative Economic Development"

PRIMCED International Workshop
January 9, 2015

Conference Room, Institute of Economic Research, Hitotsubashi University

Program

- [1] 10:30-11:00 Takashi Kurosaki (Hitotsubashi) "Introduction to the Workshop" and "Shocks and Community-Based Development: Summary of Findings from Five-year Panel Survey in Northwestern Pakistan"
- [2] 11:00-12:00 Masanori Takashima (Hitotsubashi), Takeshi Maru (Hitotsubashi), and Motoi Kusadokoro (Tokyo Univ of Agriculture & Technology) "Productivity of Japanese Agriculture and Household Responses to Shocks in 1930s: A Panel Data Analysis Using Survey of Farm Household Economy"
- 12:00-13:00 Lunch Break
- [3] 13:00-14:00 Takeshi Sakurai (Univ. of Tokyo) and Ken Miura (Brown Univ) "Short-term and Long-term Resilience of Households in the Semi-arid Tropics of Sub-Saharan Africa"
- [4] 14:00-15:00 Satoru Shimokawa (Hong Kong Univ of Science & Technology) "Is Cereal Price Subsidy Really Ineffective to the Poor? Evidence from China" (co-authored with Albert Park and Sangui Wang)
- 15:00-15:30 Tea Break
- [5] 15:30-16:30 Tatyana Chesnokova (Univ. of Adelaide) "Export Exposure and Gender Specific Work Participation in Indonesia" (co-authored with Jesmin Rupa and Nicholas Sim)
- [6] 16:30-17:30 Tetsuji Okazaki (Univ. of Tokyo) "Measuring the Extent and Implications of Corporate Political Connections" (co-authored with Michiru Sawada)
- 17:30-18:00 Overall comments by Gary Fields (Cornell University), followed by concluding remarks by Takashi Kurosaki
- 18:30 Dinner at Ouka Restaurant くにたち桜花レストラン <http://www.k-ouka.com/>

The workshop is jointly organized by PRIMCED Research Project (<http://www.ier.hit-u.ac.jp/primced/>), Center for Economic Institutions (<http://cei.ier.hit-u.ac.jp/Japanese/>), and Hitotsubashi Development Workshop (<http://www.ier.hit-u.ac.jp/extra/hatten.html>).